GlobalHealth celebrates new Oklahoma City headquarters with ribbon cutting

Oklahoma Tower to provide more space, opportunities for employees to foster innovation

OKLAHOMA CITY – GlobalHealth, an Oklahoma-based health insurance provider, recently hosted a ribbon cutting and tour of its new Oklahoma City headquarters in the Oklahoma Tower, 210 Park Ave., Suite 2800. Oklahoma City Mayor David Holt attended the ceremony, where GlobalHealth executives spoke on the organization’s predictive analytics and prescriptive health insights.

“We are excited to have our Oklahoma City headquarters in the heart of the city,” said Scott Vaughn, GlobalHealth president and CEO. “The new location provides additional room for our growing company, and the office’s innovative design elements help fuel our passion to deliver the best healthcare coverage in the industry.”

Located on the 28th and 29th floors of the Oklahoma Tower, the new Oklahoma City headquarters features a modern design and open floor plan with more than 34,000 square feet of offices, meeting spaces and a large training room. The office’s central location also provides employees access to the several food, entertainment and health options in the area, including nearby gyms and proximity to the Myriad Botanical Gardens and other walkable locations.

“This is an office of the future,” Vaughn said. “By allowing employees to interact and collaborate with their fellow team members, we are helping to create a culture that empowers, values and encourages our employees, as well as providing a space that will allow employees to provide the best possible service to our members.”

GlobalHealth employs more than 225 associates in communities throughout Oklahoma to provide access to responsive, local customer care for members. GlobalHealth also maintains its Tulsa headquarters at 6120 S. Yale Ave.
